Based at Whitham Park House in Lincoln, Anglian Water sought expansion to an adjacent building and fit-out experts Office Principles were tasked with delivering the 20,000 sq ft project.

According to Office Principles, “The designers worked with the client to create two distinctive working areas. One wing was orientated to workstations and activity-based working, for engineers and the other hosted a more collaborative environment, housing the main cafe, washrooms, agile working zones, sofas and quiet booths.”

Thanks to a long history of collaborating on successful projects, Creatif were approached to deliver several workspace solutions to fit the needs of this brief.

Open plan working presents many acoustic challenges, negated by our ceiling hung Whisper acoustic baffles which help to absorb unwanted sound within the space when in use.

Made from 100% recycled polyester, our eco-friendly Whisper material was also present amongst a selection of Float panels - lightweight screens which allow for division of space quickly and easily. The water droplet cut-out pattern demonstrates Whisper’s versatility and adds some subtle branding to the space. In addition, several writable panels installed help promote agile working.

Finally, we provided several Constructif modular shelving units painted to match the bold interior colours chosen.
