Located in the heart of London and looking out over the iconic skyline of Canary Wharf, Herbert Smith Freehills' new office is the epitome of a contemporary workplace, designed to attract and retain talent.

Designed by global giants Unispace, HSF chief executive Mark Rigotti said the company's new office would create "a workplace – and workforce – for the future."

With that in mind, Unispace approached Creatif to design, manufacture and install a bespoke moving wall system with a twist.

Our solution was a novel one. Instead of a traditional moving wall, we created a number of bespoke pivoting panels that would provide the flexibility needed.
